Migrant digital policy advocacy needs specialized support.

Currently, the space has some significant gaps:

- Community access to digital security knowledge
- Lack of cross-campaign knowledge sharing
- Limited technical capacity in migrant justice organizations
- Lack of migrant justice focus in digital rights organizations

The mission: fight for migrant digital rights through education, advocacy, and technology.

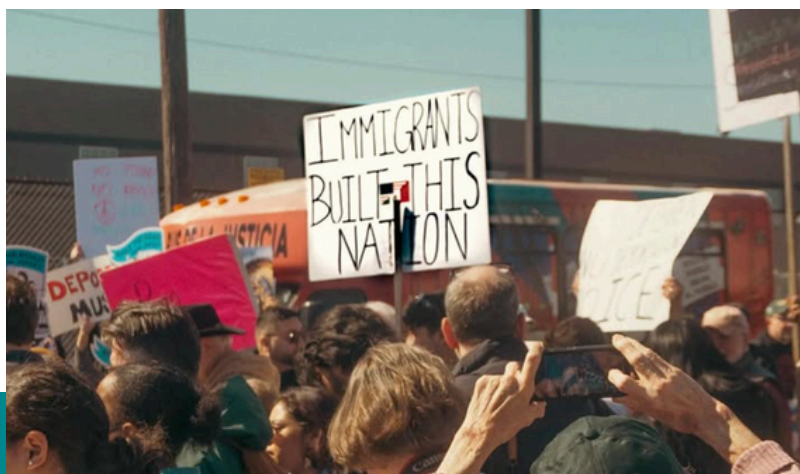

Migrant Digital Defense arms migrant communities and co-conspirators with advocacy materials, campaign strategy, and digital tools to fight anti-migrant surveillance technology, defend community safety, and counter digital authoritarianism.

MDD fights for digital rights on all fronts.

Our work centers directly impacted communities, building technical and personal capacity:

- Education: Co-creating digital security education and digital know-your-rights programs
- Advocacy: Taking action on technology policy developments impacting migrant communities
- Technology: Building advocacy and communications tools for digital justice campaigns

TSA OPT OUT CARD

As stated on the TSA website (when traveling within or leaving the US):

Participation in the testing of biometric technology is voluntary. Passengers may notify a TSA officer if they do not wish to participate and instead go through the standard ID verification process.

"I am exercising my right to opt out of biometrics." "I do not want my photo taken." "I do not want my photo taken when I approach so be alert. It can look like an iPad-like device mounted on a podium/stand or even a small standard webcam. Cover your face while approaching if necessary."

As stated on the CBP website (when entering the US):

U.S. citizens who do not wish to submit to facial photo capture pursuant to these processes may request alternative processing, which typically involves a manual review of their travel documents by a CBPO.
